

Proposed Arts Magazine Finds Many Advocates

Professors and Students Approve Publication Idea

SEVERAL CAUTIONS

Professors Leacock, Stanley Noad, Scott, and Files Comment

"I'm all for it," said Dr. Stephen Leacock when questioned about his opinion of the proposal to institute a literary magazine under the sponsorship of the Arts Undergraduate Society. "I think that is the true sort of thing to have around college."

This is fairly typical of the dozen statements obtained by the Daily yesterday from representative professors and students about their reaction to the proposal.

"The proposal is interesting," said Professor Carleton W. Stanley of the Classics Department. "There is room for a college monthly, and there is a need for something which will tempt undergraduates to a considered self-expression. I wish the promoters of the plan every success."

Professor A. S. Noad of the English Department said that he was glad to hear of the idea. However he was of the belief that care would have to be taken to prevent a glut of papers of one sort, because after all each one has only a limited audience.

"If I can promise to give advice, I would say, Give the magazine a blessing and a bank account, and then let it stand by itself," said Professor F. R. Scott of the Faculty of Law, who was associate editor of the late McGill Fortnightly Review. He believes that the only way to find out if the idea is good or bad is to start it. He is all in favor of a start.

"I am heartily in favor," said Professor H. G. Files of the English Department. "But care must be taken to see that it does not become the mouthpiece of a small group. There must be things in it to appeal to the (Continued on page four)

To Hear Dean Of Law Faculty

Will Describe American Relations With Canada

"Canadian and American Relations" will be the subject of P. E. Corbett, Dean of the Faculty of Law, at the People's Forum tomorrow evening at 7.30.

Dean Corbett, a Rhodes Scholar, studied law at Oxford after having served with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in France and elsewhere. He ended a brilliant career there by becoming Fellow of All Souls. For a time he worked on the League of Nations staff as legal advisor to the International Labour Office at Geneva.

In 1924 he was appointed to the staff of McGill as Gale Professor of Roman Law, and four years later became Dean of the Faculty of Law. During the past summer, Dean Corbett's address before the Institute of Politics at Williamsstown received wide publicity throughout the United States and Canada. His book "Canada and World Politics" written in collaboration with Professor H. A. Smith, formerly at McGill, has made him known as one of the foremost students of Canadian problems.

Club Offers Prize

Toronto Women's Organization Sues International Relations

The Women's Canadian Club of Toronto are offering their annual prize of one hundred dollars for the best essay submitted on "Canada's International Relations."

They believe that the problems and opportunities of Canada in the realm of international relations are of tremendous importance. The manner in which these problems are solved and the spirit in which they are developed by the people in dealings with others, will do much to shape the national character of the Canada of the future.

The Women's Canadian Club feels that whereas national consciousness depends by the development, both spiritual and material of inner unity, so it is both deepened and broadened by an appreciation of Canada's

H. B. Gives Opinion On Arts Magazine

Among those who were asked for opinions concerning the publication of an Arts Magazine, with the support of the Undergraduate Society of that faculty, is H. B. (Arts year unknown) who for over ten years has allowed his poetry to be published in the Daily.

On short notice, he has submitted his opinion as follows: "More literature, apparel for the mind. Come, and may your thirsty souls find. Give me a desire to read and think."

Immortal truths, and may I drink Literature, the thoughts of living souls. Literature, the immortality of speech."

Yours in haste,

Arts '32 Will Get Together

Class Decides on Program of Activities

IN UNION

Vote Money for Basketball—Will Enter Interclass Debates

The recent drastic drop in stock market prices is said to have led the Arts '32 executive to call the class together in a hasty conference. A large and ambitious program of expansion of activities was decided upon at this conference, which took place in the smoking room of the Arts Building at one p.m. yesterday.

The members of Arts '32 felt that the bewildering variety of courses and the diversity of extracurricular activities failed to keep the class together and did not promote any class spirit. It was therefore decided to institute a series of class get-togethers, in various forms. These will be extremely informal, and will allow the members of the class to become better acquainted with each other.

The tentative plans for the "get-togethers" were enthusiastically received. A committee consisting of Bill Sellar, Dave Lloyd, Bert Cockerton, and Henry Boulkine was appointed to co-operate with the executive in the arranging of the first one. This evening will consist of an informal dinner at the Union, followed by entertainment supplied by the members of the class themselves. If this one is successful, it will be followed by theatre parties, class dances, night outings, smokers, and so on. It is planned to make the cost as low as possible, and the executive hopes that the class will support these, loyally, as they have all other undertakings of the class.

Funds For Class

A class treasury was also called into being at this meeting, and so that the treasury might have something to treasure it was decided to tax each member of the class twenty-five cents. Reports were then received concerning class debating, hockey, and basketball.

Hubert Doody, class basketball manager, reported that the team is working out splendidly. He hopes to have them carry off the Interclass trophy this year as they did last year. A sum of twelve dollars was voted from the class treasury, for the purchase of sweaters for the team.

The class debating society was reported to be progressing excellently. The first series of eliminations is now drawing to a close. A trophy will be awarded the winning team. The win (Continued on page three) position within the Empire and in relation to foreign powers.

The contest is open to anyone in the Dominion and of a maximum limit of three thousand words. It must be typewritten, on one side only and unsigned, the name and address of the writer must be enclosed in a separate envelope. The essays will be returned to the writer if a stamped and addressed envelope is enclosed under the separate seal. They should be addressed to the Secretary of the Women's Canadian Club of Toronto, 31 Bloor Street East. All manuscripts should be sent by registered mail to reach the office before March 1, 1930. Prose only, will be accepted.

New Students' Directory Is On Sale Today

Appearance is Week Sooner Than Expected

COSTS TEN CENTS

Cosmopolitan Student Body Again Listed—Janitors Sell

Approximately 2300 students are listed in the McGill University Directory of Students for the Coming Session of 1929-30. This booklet, about the same in appearance and make-up as in previous years, makes its first appearance this morning, when it will be available to all undergraduates upon the payment of the nominal charge of ten cents. The janitors of the various buildings have charge of the distribution of this annual publication of the Student's Council, of which the present edition is the fifth.

E. H. Johnson, Arts representative on the Council, had charge of the directory this year. He was handicapped in his work by the fact that the telephone numbers of many students were not settled till fairly late in the session, because of rearrangement of the exchanges in the city. Nevertheless the publication day is only one day behind that of last year, when the booklet appeared on November 29th. It is also ahead of the expectations of Johnson, who two weeks ago stated that the directory would not appear until about a week from now.

The cosmopolitan character of the student body of McGill is again well illustrated in the new directory. There are the usual quotas from the nine provinces of Canada and from Newfoundland. Once more a majority of the states of the American Union are represented by one or more students, and the British Isles have sent their representatives here.

Over a dozen are from the British West Indies, and one is from Haiti. Other foreign countries from which (Continued on page four)

Varied Program For Conference

Study Groups and Lecture Feature Gathering

The opening session of the Joint S.C.A.—Y.W.C.A. Conference will take place this afternoon at 5 o'clock. In line with the theme, "Recreation and Leisure," a social hour will be an integral part of today's program. Following a supper at 6 o'clock in the Club Rooms of the "Y" a sing-song will take place. Small groups for the purpose of discussing the topic will then be formed by lot. Misses Z. Slack, Brisbane, Cass, MacCallum, Lowe, and Bismore, are planning to lead. At 9.30, the whole conference will meet for open forum under Errol Amaron.

Much interest is being shown at the "Y" and R.V.C. as registration figures show. Despite a signed register, however, all women students are especially invited to the Communion Service at 10 a.m. and the Church Service at 11 which will take place in the American United Church. Both are arranged particularly for the conference.

The Sunday afternoon session begins at 4.30 at Strathcona Hall. The address "Recreation and Life" will be delivered by Miss Percival and will be followed by tea and music. An opportunity to attend Evening Service and the Moyses Hall Musicals will be given to those attending.

Hector Charlesworth At Columbus Forum

Will Speak on "Canadian Kaleidoscope"

The author of "Canada Chronicles," Hector Charlesworth, well-known to Canadians as a journalist and dramatic critic, will speak before the Columbus Forum tomorrow afternoon on the subject, "Canadian Kaleidoscope." This meeting is the fourth one of the present series which will continue throughout the winter.

Mr. Charlesworth began his literary career in 1891 at the age of eighteen, when his first article was printed. He has since been prominent in Toronto journalistic circles, having been con-

Sing Sea Songs And Chanties In High School

Professor Leslie R. Thomson will deliver the last of the series of Saturday morning lectures this morning. In the Assembly Hall of the Montreal High School when he will speak on "Ships and Chanties." This lecture, which may be attended by children and adults, will be illustrated by interesting slides and models, assisted by Mr. Jack Howell, as soloist. A group of several Sea Scouts will sing chanties, accompanied by an orchestra under the direction of Ray Caen.

The orchestra comprises Ray Caen, clarinet; Belle Thompson, flute; Moses Pascal and Estella Burke, violins; Kathleen Murphy, piano; and Gerald Chapman, trumpet. This series of lectures for children and adults has been arranged through the efforts of the Department of Extra-Mural Relations. Most of these have been given by McGill Professors and are of the same type as last year's "Wonderland Through the Microscope."

Empire Shows No Enthusiasm

Lack of Interest Disrupting Relations With Britain

AT TORONTO

Professor Waugh Addresses Empire Club in Queen City

Toronto, Nov. 29.—Speaking before a gathering at the Empire Club luncheon yesterday, Professor W. T. Waugh, chairman of the Department of History at McGill, questioned the sincerity of imperial enthusiasm in Canada, outside of Ontario and some parts of British Columbia. This was also lacking in Great Britain, and in the near future the people would be asking themselves whether the commonwealth was a liability or an asset.

Relations between Great Britain and the Dominions were disrupted to a certain extent, he believed, by lack of knowledge of one another, lack of interest on the part of the Mother Country, "and a general dislike of Englishmen by people of the Dominions."

Professor Waugh said an easy optimism in the future of the commonwealth was discerned in speeches of visiting British statesmen to Canada during the past year.

"A mood of facile optimism is of all moods dangerous," he said. "It seems to me people who talk in excessively optimistic ways are overlooking some of the more important facts. (Continued on page three)

Presbyterians Hear Travelled Essayist

"Creative Thought" is Subject for Monday Night

Dr. Orlio Lynus, Commander, K.O. H.G., Vice-President of the American Heraldry Society, will address the Literary and Philosophical Society of the Presbyterian College, Monday evening, at 8.00 o'clock on the subject of "Creative Thought."

Dr. Lynus who was born in Europe, has been associated with the Universities of Paris, Berlin, London, Budapest, Amsterdam, Brussels and New York. He is a jurist and has had extensive diplomatic experience and is the author of a number of books published in English, French and German. A number of philosophical essays, aphorisms and maxims have also come from his pen.

He has had wide experience as a lecturer both in this continent and in Europe. Dr. Lynus is an ardent exponent of synthetic philosophy, not only as a subject of intellectual interest but as a matter of practical concern in all departments of state. His motto seems to be "Know Thyself And Be Happy."

The speaker for a week from tomorrow will be Lieutenant-Colonel Drew, who is known as the author of "The Truth About The War," which appeared in MacLean's Magazine and was published in booklet form.

Players' Club Scores Again In "Dear Brutus"

Moyse Hall Crowded at 2nd Showing of Barrie's Play

PRAISE GENERAL

Richard Eve, Phoebe Nobbs, Hazel Howard, Cluny Dale are Prominent

The members of the McGill Players' Club again distinguished themselves in Sir James Barrie's "Dear Brutus," presented last night at Moyse Hall before a capacity audience. The performance was deserving of great praise in every respect. The entire company maintained a commendable standard of acting, and successfully interpreted the mood of the play throughout which was one subtly combining the plausible and the fantastic. This is the second performance of the three being given this week in Moyse Hall.

The performance throughout won the admiration of the audience. The scenes were effective in colour and arrangement, and that for the second act was especially successful in combining a certain realism with a poignant earnestness. The players never for a moment lost the moods of their roles and were extremely happy in bringing out the appealing humour in the play.

Deserving of honourable mention is Miss Phoebe Nobbs whose sympathetic and altogether charming interpretation of might-have-been Margaret drew the particular applause of all. The rather disappointed and back-sliding artist, Dearth, was very ably portrayed by Mr. Richard Eve, and the suggestion of supernatural good or evil in the hobgoblin character of Lolo, was deftly brought out by Cluny Dale. Hazel Howard was attractive as Joanna Trout, and Charles Yule was convincingly incapable of any deep or serious passion as the philandering John Purie. The enunciation of all the players was good, but some did not speak quite loud enough to be comfortably heard. (Continued from page three)

Noted Visitor Here Tomorrow

Maccabaeans Hear Hurwitz in Union at 3 P.M.

Tomorrow afternoon at three o'clock the Maccabaeans Circle will assemble in the Union ballroom to hear Chancellor Henry Hurwitz discuss the topic "Judaism and Humanism."

Mr. Hurwitz is the head of the Intercollegiate Menorah Association, which is the national organization of Jewish student societies of the different universities throughout the United States and Canada. Ever since he founded the movement at Harvard in 1906 he has been its guiding star and leader. He has always taken a keen interest in Jewish youth and their problems, and his message tomorrow is expected to be of vital importance to Jewish students.

The musical numbers of the program will be rendered by Samuel Goodman, with his violin.

At tomorrow's meeting a report of the Annual dance of the society will be given. Over 100 couples were present at the affair last Wednesday night, and the committee are able to report a financial as well as a social success.

The debate between the Freshmen and the Sophomore years will be held on Sunday December 15, when the freshmen will uphold the affirmative of the resolution that the British administration of Palestine has been a failure from the point of view of Zionist interests.

In New York Recital

Miss Ellen Ballou Will Appear at Carnegie Hall

Ellen Ballou, a McGill graduate, will be the soloist at a concert tonight at Carnegie Hall, New York. She will play Tchaikovsky Concerto in G major.

Miss Ballou was born in Montreal and later won a scholarship at McGill together with numerous other prizes. She then went to New York to study with Josffy and afterwards became the pupil of Hoffman, Jones, and Rachaus. Last year she spent abroad, playing with the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra under the leadership of Tchaik and with the Vienna Philhar-

Last Jean D'Arc Lecture To Be Given Sunday

Professor W. T. Waugh will deliver the third and last of a series of lectures commemorating the life of Jean d'Arc tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in Moyse Hall.

The first lecture, "Jeanne 500 years ago" dealt with the early life of Jean and events immediately preceding the siege of Orleans. The second, given last Sunday, described the raising of the siege and the crowning of the King.

The subject of tomorrow's address will be "Jean's Capture, Trial and Death." These lectures are being given under the auspices of the Department of History. The public as well as the students are invited to attend.

To Elect Council and Key Members

Students Go to Polls in All Faculties Monday

TWO ACCLAMATIONS

Council Contests in Five Faculties — Four for Scarlet Key

Elections for the Students' Council in five faculties and for the Scarlet Key Society in Commerce, Medicine, Science, and Arts will be held on Monday from 9 to 6. A special arrangement has been made for the Scarlet Key election in Medicine. Twenty men from the faculties of Commerce, Science, Medicine and Arts have been nominated to contest eight vacancies in Group "B" of the Scarlet Key. Seven men were nominated in Science, five in Commerce, four in Medicine, and four in Arts. Nineteen men from Commerce, Science, Medicine, Law, Theology, and Arts will compete for the seats on the Students' Council. Sydney C. Garland of Theology was elected by acclamation and due to the resignation of Homer C. Osman of Medicine, G. Allison Holland is representative by acclamation.

Commerce leads in the number of nominations, having five men in the field. Science have four and Dentistry three, while Medicine, Law and Arts each have two.

Two sophomores from each faculty are to be elected to Group "B" of the Scarlet Key. After holding office for one year they are eligible for nomination for membership in Group "A".

The following are the nominees for the Students' Council:

Commerce
Howard M. Baker, George McTeer, Loche Malkin, and J. Taylor.

Science
C. W. Morrison, G. King, D. Ellis, and R. A. Craik.

Dentistry
R. Murray, K. Ironstone, A. W. Oliver.

Law
L. Hart and R. Caron.

Arts
A. Edison and Munroe Bourne.

Medicine
G. Allison (by acclamation).

Theology
S. G. Garland (by acclamation).

Those nominated for the Scarlet Key Society are:

Science
T. M. Atkinson, R. Henwood, G. Jost, H. Keller, W. Murray, F. Phillips and J. Saunders.

Commerce
H. McCune, G. Craik, Ian Matheson, E. Bourdeau and R. Bowman.

Medicine
L. Carlson, M. Rice, O. Kildwise, and F. Olmes.

Arts
K. Baker, C. Davis, M. Doig and D. Hamilton.

Resources Of Canada's North Not Developed

No Local Market for Products of Region

WESLEY CHURCH

Region is Potential Producer of Meat, Fish, Oil and Minerals

Canada's Northwest, was briefly sketched by Col. Wilfred Bovey to the Men's Club in the Wesley United Church, N.D.G., last night. Col. Bovey's speech, which was illustrated by slides, followed a Club dinner.

Col. Bovey prefaced his address by a general description of the Northwest Territories. These three great districts, Keewatin, MacKenzie and Franklin, lying north of the Provincial line and east of the Yukon, have a land area greater than that of Great Britain, France, Spain and Germany taken together. The lake area of the region is as great as that of Lakes Michigan and Huron and half the lakes of Quebec. In all this territory there are only about 12,000 people. The mainland can be divided into three geographical districts, the Mackenzie Basin, the Laurentian or Huronian area, and the part commonly known as the Barren Lands. The first two districts are merely extensions of the same areas in the southern provinces. The Barren Lands, or more properly, the Arctic Provinces, is a great undulating plain in the northeastern section between the Laurentian Plateau and the coast.

Col. Bovey escorted his hearers on an imaginary journey illustrated by slides from Edmonton to the mouth of the Mackenzie River. The first stage is by railway to the end of the steel. Waterways. From there to Fitzgerald on the Slave River the journey is made by river boats, stern-wheelers. The portage between Fitzgerald and Fort Smith is made by tractor. The traveller is now with the Northwest Territories when he reaches Fort Smith, a village of 200 population, and (Continued on page four)

Maurice Onderet To Give Recital

Will be Held in Moyse Hall Tomorrow Night

At 9.00 p.m. tomorrow evening, Maurice Onderet will give a Violin recital in Moyse Hall, under the auspices of the Conservatorium of Music. Mr. Onderet is a member of the McGill Faculty of Music. Those who attend will hear selections from Schumann and Beethoven, both celebrated music composers of the nineteenth century.

On Friday, December 6th, at 8.30 p.m. in the Moyse Hall, the celebrated Russian Composer-Pianist, Nicolai Medtner, will give a Recital of his own compositions. It is to be noted that the date of this Recital has been changed from the 29th to the 6th of December.

Although there is a great demand for tickets there are still some available. Reserved seats are being sold for $2.20. The General admission is $1.10, and there is also a Special Student Rate of 75 cents.

On Sunday evening, December 8th, a recital will be given by Mr. Paul de Marky.

The programme for tomorrow evening's recital is as follows:

1. Sonata in A minor, Op. 105 Schumann 1810-1855.
  - (a) Moderato
  - (b) Allegro
  - (c) Allegro
2. Sonata in C minor, Op. 30, No. 2 Beethoven 1770-1827.
  - (a) Allegro
  - (b) Adagio Cantabile
  - (c) Scherzo Allegro
  - (d) (Finale) Allegro

Meds To Vote In Different Manner

The elections for members of Group "B" of the Scarlet Key Society from Medicine, are being held Monday, in a slightly different manner than usual.

The hours will be as follows: 9.00 to 10.00 A.M., and Noon to 2.00 P.M. at the poll on the ground floor of the Medical Building, and 7.45 to 8.30 P.M., at the poll at the entrance to the Assembly Hall of the Medical Building where a Medical Society meeting is being held on that evening.

UT QUI MINISTRAT

THE 1929-30 Students' Directory appears today, largely the product of the work of one man, the member of the Students' Council to whom the task was entrusted. This is a current example of the fact that it is not necessary to offer money inducement to get work done. We in college are able to appreciate the existence of other than money motives better than many "Men-in-the-street"; with whom the idea that jobs must be made lucrative to be filled is rather current.

Of course, the fact is that students, in performing their primary function of study, are working more or less hard for no money remuneration, and that this state of affairs is intrinsic in the present organization of higher education. But in addition, nearly all extra-curricular activities are carried on in the same non-commercial manner on the campuses with which we have any acquaintance. We find this condition highly desirable, although it may be the cause of minor complaints.

No external incentive is needed to make a first-class workman work for nothing the trouble is that he can seldom afford to do so, writes Bernard Shaw. This seems to explain the general difference in the attitudes of the student and people unconnected with college. The former can afford to work solely for the satisfaction which he derives from it; the outsider is not often so fortunately situated, but must spend most of his time at the job by which he earns his living.

For the most part students accept willingly their opportunities of serving their fellows and doing very real work without thought of or desire for pay. Occasionally a score-head advocates wages for those who work in the Book Exchange, on the Daily staff, and in other activities which demand effort and time. Such innovations would be unpopular. Much would be lost to the spirit of the student body and little would be gained by the individuals getting the money, and they would not necessarily do the work any more thoroughly.

EDUCATION AND CULTURE

THERE IS AN OLD and quaint belief held by many people that you could take a man in the rough, so to speak, send him to a university for a certain number of years, and he comes out a finished product—the essence of culture. Curiously enough, it is not only the unlettered mob who believe this but a great many of our so-called educated classes.

Culture is not merely the accumulation of a mass of information, or the gaining of estoric knowledge, or even the application of technical details. That is not enough. To a wide field of education there must be added depth of understanding—understanding not merely of ones self, but also of ones fellow men; to understand men in relation, not only to each other, but to and as a result of their environment.

The boorishness that too often fails to be effectively covered over by a B.A. or an M.D. is by many mistakenly called 'intellectual snobbery'. As a matter of fact, there is nothing intellectual about it. It is simply a lack of that finer understanding and nobility of character which no university can supply. The university only offers food for it and provides an environment where it may flourish to maturity, but it cannot create it.

Unfortunately, there are, not rarely, found men on the staffs of universities who fall into the class—trained but not educated; educated but not cultured. And it is for this reason that universities so often fail in the purpose for which they are meant.

THE STUDENTS' DIRECTORY

WE MUST congratulate those who are responsible for the appearance of the Students' Directory this morning. They are to be congratulated because, in spite of the fact that while the data was being compiled the telephone numbers in the vicinity of the University were being changed, the Directory appears but one day later than last year.

In view of this we note an additional feature. The first two pages are given to the compiled list all the principal University buildings, and the fraternities, with their new phone numbers.

There is one mistake which we must notice, for it affects both us and the President of the Students' Council personally. The phone number of the Daily is given as LANCaster 7141, while no alternative is given for phone calls after 10 p.m. An insertion should have been made to the effect that the phone number of the Daily after 10 p.m., is LANCaster 7143; if LANCaster 7141 is called for the Daily after that hour the President will object.

CORRECTION

LITTLE WORDS have the habit of causing a lot of trouble. Take for instance the word "yes". But that one which has affected us lately is the negative.

In a sentence which appeared in yesterday's editorial on the Arts Magazine the word "not" was omitted. It should have read, "From what we have seen of the Arts men on our own staff we know that they will not have difficulty in nominating an editor, and that he will quite easily secure a good working board."

The THEATRE

"Dear Brutus"

WELL CAST, well acted, staged and lighted in a rather mediocre manner — this is a concise summary of our impression of "Dear Brutus", the latest Players' Club venture. We might even go so far as to say that some of the acting was excellent, especially, that by some of the newcomers to the Club. The women were considerably better than the men.

One wonders whether the Club quite realised the large order it was assigning itself to fill when it chose Barrie for a major production. After the unusual and striking "Insect Play" of last year, which still remains as the high water mark in McGill dramatics, an outstanding, but at the same time different type of play undoubtedly had to be selected. Barrie certainly fills the bill, but in this, a play of character rather than situation he demands a subtlety and deftness of interpretation that is most difficult for an amateur group to catch, and which was only partially attained by the Players' Club. For the venture itself and for the several new notes introduced in their production, however, they deserve considerable credit.

Many—in fact the large majority—of the technical faults, both in acting and staging, are attributable quite directly to an enforced lack of familiarity with the theatre itself. Any play, and certainly a difficult play of this nature, requires several rehearsals on an actual stage which it quite obviously had not had. The improvement in such matters as clear diction, making the voices carry, stage movements and use of lights were very noticeable last night as compared with Thursday. Those who have taken away bad impressions from the first night really should come again to give the play a fair chance.

To come down to details about the performers—

Outstanding was the fine character sketch of Mrs. Coade given by Miss Phyllis Lyth. She gave sympathetic well drawn and restrained portrait of a motherly old woman, a difficult thing in itself and twice difficult for an amateur.

Spontaneous and a child-like abandon marked the interpretation of the part of Margaret, Dearth's daughter, given by Miss Phoebe Nobbs. She caught the spirit of this typically Barrie character very well. Miss Nobbs should, however, guard against over acting; it seemed at times as though she were striving too hard for effect.

In the very difficult part of Alice Dearth, Miss Kathleen Barry acquitted herself well. In the second act in the woods and for part of the third act she was excellent, her low voice and repressed manner being suited to the part. The exactions of her "coming to" and her last exit in the third act proved, unfortunately, just a little too much for her. She wore her gown beautifully.

The other three women in the party, Joanna Trout, Mabel Purdie, and Lady Caroline Lane, played respectively by Hazel Howard Kathleen Pinhey and Anna Dale did not call for a great deal of serious work. They were well filled, however, and there were evidences on the part of some, of talent beyond that called for by the parts.

Richard Eve handled himself in a creditable manner as Dearth, the unsuccessful painter. The contrast between the unhappily married, disillusioned old drunkard of the first act and the happy go lucky wandering father and painter of the second was very well done. His scene with his daughter in the woods was one of the best things in the play.

As Lob, the queer little old host of the party, Cluny Dale did a good character bit. The part does not, however, really offer much beyond providing motivations. Philip Sise, as Matey, the Butler, had a small but at times difficult part to handle. He did not seem quite at home on the stage occasionally, but on the whole did well. Charles Parrish as Coade was satisfactory although not outstanding. Charles Yulle as Purdie showed flashes of promise but most of the time was far too stiff in both physical and mental bearing.

Being a play of character and not of situation rather careful direction is needed to prevent the play from becoming somewhat dull and slow. It is much to Mrs. Stehle's credit that the piece moves along as swiftly and as smoothly as it does. Once or twice it lags, perhaps, and the grouping in the drawing room is occasionally awkward, but generally speaking these points have been well looked after.

We must put in a word for the Women's dresses. They were all strikingly designed and executed, and, by no means the least important point, worn well. They provided a good example of the value of dressing a scene, using "dressing" in its more general sense of decorating.

Scenery and lighting were not particularly good. Designs and plans, respectively, would have been good but they could not be carried out with the materials and stage available. The neutral gray background of the first and third acts disset off the costumes but beyond that little can be said. The second act, with its queer trees and mysterious atmosphere was, however, well carried out.

To those who think we have been perhaps a little harsh here and there, we would point out that little good is done by the usual review of an amateur show. The Players' Club is aiming high; it must be criticized on as high a plane.

Correspondence

The Editor has correspondence from "Two Campus Co-eds," which cannot be printed until the authors' names have been submitted to the Editor at the Daily Office or the Tuck Shop.

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,

May I through your Correspondence Column reply to the virulent and blind attack made by Mr. S. S. Kwauk on my paper entitled "The Chinese Republic". His virulence may be excused as a natural resentment at what he erroneously considered to be a "malicious" attack on his native country. However, his blindness is not excusable.

If Mr. Kwauk had taken the trouble to read the report instead of confining himself to the head-line, which, by the way, was written by a reporter and not by myself, he would not have erroneously accused me of any "malicious" prophecy concerning the probable future of China.

Far from having the pessimistic outlook which Mr. Kwauk ascribes to me, I said that "the impact of the Occident, the importation of Western ideas and methods, and their reaction upon the ancient Chinese forms, will shape a new China. The progress of industrialism, the social changes now taking place, and the assimilation of new ideas are contributing to the reshaping of China." Anyone not afflicted with the blindness of Mr. Kwauk will readily see from the above statements that I have not predicted any dark future for China.

Mr. Kwauk, "who has eyes, yet cannot see", has attributed to me the use of the word "chaos" in reference to present conditions in China. Through the smoke of his own bombardment he has failed to see that the word "chaos" is plainly part of a recognized quotation of Henry Kissedre Norton.

In spite of the doubt cast by Mr. Kwauk upon my knowledge of Chinese affairs, I have not been so presumptuous as to deliver a paper on such an involved subject as China without a great deal of preliminary study. I took as my principal authority Mr. H. K. Norton.

Mr. Norton, at the close of the World War, became Executive Officer of the Canadian Immigration Commission. Interest in Far Eastern problems led him to the Orient where he lived for some years and travelled extensively in China.

Since his return to the U.S.A., he has lectured at the conference on Far Eastern affairs of the Harris Foundation at the University of Chicago and at the conference on China at John Hopkins. He was Chairman of the conference on "The Chinese Republic and the Powers" of the Institute of Politics at Williamstown, in 1926.

Mr. Norton says that "since the revolution of 1911 swept away the tottering Manchu dynasty no stable government has taken its place. In no one of the three principal divisions of government considered essential as the framework of a republic has China attained sufficient success so that she may regard her executive, legislature or judiciary as anything less than a mockery." With regard to the international aspect of China, I quote another statement of Norton. "It is

Next Week At Local Theatres

AT HIS MAJESTY'S

The noted William Faversham will be the guest artist at His Majesty's Theatre next week when, supported by the Orpheum Players and an augmented cast, he will appear in "Her Friend the King." A play of the "Prisoner of Zenda" flavor, with modern touches. "Her Friend the King" was written by A. E. Thomas and Harrison Rhodes, and was produced in New York with Mr. Faversham earlier this season. It deals with a king and his daughter who are exiled to Switzerland to await the outcome of a revolution in their country. The daughter is betrothed to a prince she has never seen, and he presents himself to her without revealing his identity. Then, too, there is a wealthy widow who is in love with the king and who, unknown to him, finances the movement that restores him his throne. When he learns this he makes the widow the queen of his country.

AT THE PRINCESS

"Her Private Affairs" an all-talking Pathé production, starring Ahn Harding, will be the feature picture at the Princess Theatre, beginning today. The supporting cast includes Harry Bannister, John Loder, Kay Hammond, Arthur Hoy, Elmer Ballard, William Orlamond and Lawford Davidson. Adapted from the Austrian play, "The Night to Kill", "Her Private Affairs" tells of a woman, a prominent society leader, who, caught in the aftermath of a momentary infatuation, accidentally kills a man in seeking to avoid the partner of this infatuation. She is not suspected of the crime, her only punishment being the play of conscience and remorse upon her feelings. But an innocent man is tried for the murder, and the judge at the trial happens to be the husband of this woman. This trial scene is reported the high-spot of the picture.

A number of short offerings will be included in the programme.

very doubtful" says he, "whether China is a state at all under the generally recognized principles of international law. It cannot exercise control over all persons within its boundaries, it cannot make war or peace, and it is unable to perform its international obligations."

I offer these statements as those of Mr. Norton and not merely as my own opinions but I challenge Mr. Kwauk to refute them with substantial evidence. To do so he will have to discount the Exchange Telegraph's news despatches coming from China this week.

On Tuesday evening the Montreal Star carried the following headline: "AID ASKED OF POWERS BY CHINA. Invasion of territory basis of demand for action." Under this caption was a despatch from Harbin, Manchuria which said: "The reported Russian advance into Manchuria has halted about 40 miles over the border from the Soviet side, reliable advices reaching here said to-day." From the above reports it is apparent that China is not yet in a position to defend her own territory from foreign invasion but must seek the aid of other nations.

One great reason for this helplessness in the face of foreign aggression is the continuous turbulence and civil strife (to avoid the word "chaos" to which Mr. Kwauk objects) within the borders of China. To remove the scales from Mr. Kwauk's eyes that he may see the real conditions at present prevailing in China, I refer him to another news despatch printed in Wednesday's issue of the Star. "It is reported that the Nanking Government has taken little hand in the Manchurian situation because internal revolts occupied its attention. President Chiang Kai-Shek on Tuesday speeded up preparations for sending reinforcements to the south, where Kwangsi insurgents were preparing an invasion of Kwangtung province and Canton."

In view of these recent reports, I am of the firm conviction, a quality which I am glad to see admired by Mr. Kwauk, that his opinion rather than mine and those of others "will soon suffer a radical change".

Hoping that he will soon see the light of reason, I remain,

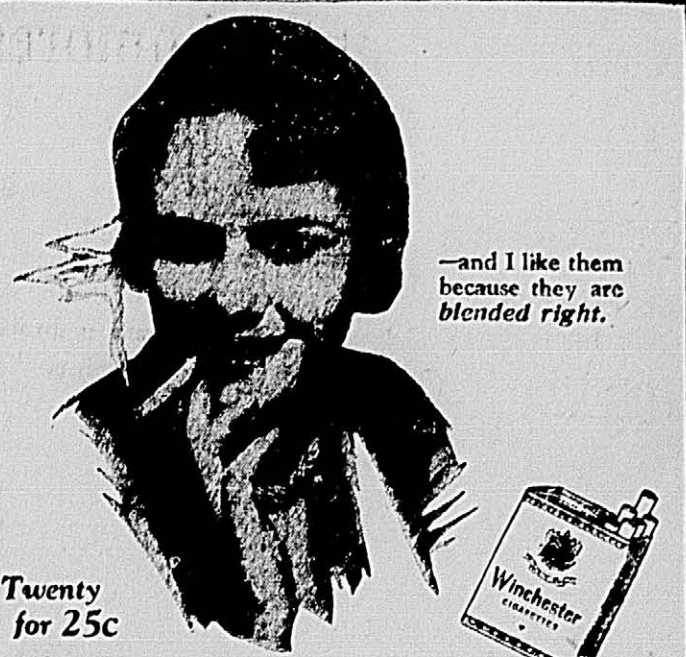

Yours truly,
C. D. McIntyre.

Dear Sir:

It was with great interest that I read in yesterday's edition, the letter of your correspondent, J. Optimus Pessimus, which expressed an opinion not uncommon both in Canada and the U.S.A. To put it in a nut-shell your correspondent maintained that I.S.S., by endeavouring to raise funds for needy students in Europe, helped to sustain the "gentleman" student who considered personal labour to earn his living below his dignity and preferred rather to die than to give up his loafing.

I would really appreciate it if you would give me the benefit of your column to correct an erroneous contention which it not contradicted. (Continued on page four)

Freshmen Beat Sophomores In Tank Meet Marked By Fast Times In Sprint Events

Wilson, Freshman, Swims Backstroke in Time Equal to Recent Intercollegiate Records; Fred Shaw is Individual High Scorer; First Year Men Score 49 Points Against Opponent's Eight.

The class of 1933 gave a final demonstration of the fact that they are a superior set of beings such as has never been seen before, a fact that they have believed for ages to be true, when they soundly trounced the sophomores in the annual swimming meet between the two lower classes last night. The meet held in the K. of C. pool yesterday from 5.30 to 6.30, about a dozen enthusiasts went through a card of seven events, roughly corresponding to the intercollegiate program.

Even if for no other reason, the meet should go down in history as an important one because of the attendance of no less a personage than Walter Spence, American Indoor National Champion last spring, and holder of all the world's breaststroke and medley records. Spence acted as starter and after looking over the boys, pronounced his opinion that with such material, McGill should in a few years have a team able to compete honorably with any of the teams across the border.

The find of the afternoon was the freshman Wilson, who won the 50 yards backstroke in time which a few years ago would have stood as an intercollegiate record. His style is excellent, though he might ease his stroke a little on the first length and save the hard work for the second. Bill Sprenger and Munroe Bourne, the two present representatives on the McGill Squad, were both seen to whistle in dismay when they heard the time. With a little coaching, Wilson will be threatening to replace either of them on the line-up.

The individual high scorer was Fred Shaw, another freshman, and likewise a find this season. He took both the sprint events in good time. He has practically clinched himself a position on the McGill sprint relay team.

The most noticeable faults were lack of finish in starts and turns, and an inability to sustain good style for more than two lengths. Nevertheless Harold Fisk feels that with the material discovered yesterday, and with the remains of last year's team, he can build up a squad which will regain the intercollegiate swimming championship this spring.

The results follow:

50 yards free style—1. F. Shaw, Freshman; 2. Cross, Freshman; 3. Cohen, Sophomore. Time 28.5-3.

100 yards free style—1. F. Shaw, F.; 2. Sprenger, F.; 3. Deig, S. Time 1.11-3.

400 yards free style—1. Jacob, F. Time, 6.37.

50 yards back—1. Wilson F.; 2. Cross, F.; 3. Deig, S. Time 34.1-5.

100 yards breast—1. Weinstein, F.; 2. Cohen, S.; 3. Wilton, F. Time 1.37.

Diving—1. French, F.; 2. Jacob F.; 3. R. Shaw, S.

200 yards Relay—1. Freshmen. 2. Sophomores. Time 1.55.

Totals in points: Freshmen 49, Sophomores 8.

Referee and clerk of course: Bill Sprenger.

Timers: Morris Bruker, F. M. Bourne.

Starter: Walter Spence.

Judge at Finish: G. Harold Fisk.

McGill Puckmen Play U. Of M. On Monday Night

Redmen Face Important Tilt as Loss Means Elimination

McTEER READY

The McGill senior hockeyists held their final practice yesterday in preparation for their forthcoming tilt against the University of Montreal puckmen on Monday night next at the Forum, in the first game of a regular doubleheader. In the second encounter, Canadians meet Columbus.

The redmen went through their workout yesterday in snappy fashion with considerable emphasis placed on the defense position, which proved to be the weak spot last Monday against M.A.A.A. Dinan, Hutchins and McGillvray were given plenty of practice at this position and will be ready to show their wares once more. Captain George McTeer is still having a slight lay-off due to his injured knee, but in all probability he will get into the fray on Monday, thereby bolstering the defense a great deal.

As none of the others on the squad are on the ailing list, a complete line-up will most likely be seen when the redmen take on their college rivals. St. Germain will be at center flanked by Doherty and Ward on the forward line. Relief men for the first line will be Farquharson, Granger, and Robertson. Powers in the nets, with Klein available in case of necessity, completes the McGill roster.

The games on Monday mean a great deal to each of the squads. As things stand at present, the McGill and University of Montreal teams are tied for the cellar position and have yet to break into the scoring column. Canadians are at the top of the league, closely followed by Columbus. If the Irishmen win, they will draw up on a par with the Frenchmen. If the Canadians take the battle, they proceed to undisputed league leadership. As for the McGill-U. of M. fixture, a loss for either squad means elimination from the running. Besides being a regular Q.A.H.A. tussle, the affair will have the added attraction of being a more or less intercollegiate fray, and although it is not a red and white home game, a large part of both student bodies is expected to lend a hand.

Arts '32 Will Get Together

ners will also enter the Arts interclass debating competition. Get-togethers should be adopted by the freshman class also, according to leading sophomores. These might very well be used to fill the gap created by the abolition of hazing. The '32 executive would be glad to co-operate with the freshmen, if necessary.

R.V.C. Hoopsters In Doubleheader

To Play Macdonald College Sextettes Today

The R.V.C. Senior and "Red" Junior basketball teams will make their first appearance of the season today when they meet the Macdonald College teams at 12 A.M. in the Montreal High School (Girls Gym).

Winnie Chisholm and Janet Ballie who composed last year's forward line have been showing up well in practice. Though the team is without the assistance of last year's captain, Jean Snyder, and Betty Archdale, Betty Craik and Eve Carter fill the positions of shooting centre and defence adequately. The Senior team last year were victors in the Montreal Women's Basketball League and the team's prospects this year look equally bright.

The "Red" Junior line-up for today will be composed chiefly of newcomers who have made a good showing in the practices.

The line-up will be:

Senior	"Red" Junior
Centre	Centre
M. Peden	M. Burris
B. Craik	F. Jones
Forward	Forward
W. Chisholm	M. Lynch
J. Ballie	H. Smart
Defence	Defence
D. J. Ross	S. Hay
E. Carter	E. Tamarin
Spare:	J. Clouston, D. Harvie-Jellie, L. Dawson, J. Campbell, E. Fairburn, B. Fernyhough.

Players' Club Scores Again In "Dear Brutus"

This play is by no means an easy vehicle; but the presentation of last night approved the courage of the players in undertaking it. The story is a combination of fact and fancy, drawing into its mesh moments of deep tragedy and of delicate humour, and in the process of unravelment introducing a scene of subtle transition from the fantastic to the real that might test the skill of any actor to accomplish with ease and conviction.

The story centres about a group of people gathered together at the home of an eccentric character, Lob, who has invited them because they have, unknown to themselves, something in common. They are impressed by the stress he has laid upon their visiting him during Midsummer Week, for there is a legend that on Midsummer's Eve a magic forest appears in the neighbourhood of Lob's house. The butler warns them not to investigate, on learning however that the word offers that "second chance" which never occurs in real life, they are all tempted to enter the wood. Each, upon his escape from the wood returns to ordinary consciousness

Fencing Notes

An important step in the history of the McGill Fencing Club was passed at the last meeting when M. Boissonault presented a constitution to the squad and an executive was elected to handle its affairs. Such organization does not in the least affect the status of the fencing squad as an integral part of the B.W. & F. It is merely a club within a club, the larger organization still holding full control.

Professor Nobbs, Supervisor of Fencing in the Province of Quebec, was elected honorary president. C. C. Clay will act as president and manager for the season. The other officers elected were: M. Boissonault, vice-president and athletic manager; H. Wiggers, secretary and publicity manager.

A. K. McKergow retains his position as captain of the team, with all privileges and powers attached thereto without infringement by the above officers on the executive council of the club.

In fact he being a member of the intercollegiate team of '28-'29, he is automatically an ex-official member of the said council under article 12 section 54 of the constitution. All in all it is believed that this courageous experiment is one of the outstanding landmarks that has been passed in the history of the club.

Boxers Work At Field House Today

The McGill boxers will have another opportunity of working out with some of Coach Bert Light's city champions from the Y.M.C.A. at today's practice in the Stadium Field House. The workout will start at three o'clock so that the members of the squad will have sufficient time to do a little road work.

The men who failed to turn out last week certainly missed a good opportunity. The visiting boxers, who were present, are all well-experienced in the many art of self-defense having earned enviable reputations in provincial boxing circles. The experience which can be gained fighting these men cannot be duplicated at the regular practices held during the week.

With the return of "Tam" Fyshe to the fold of the pugilists a strong impetus has been given to the squad. Fyshe is one of the gamiest scrappers at McGill and should have no difficulty in fighting his way through the eliminations in the 135 lb. class.

slowly; and then realize that regrets are vain, and that night-have-beens would in all essentials have turned out the same as fact; or that "the fault, dear Brutus, lies not in our stars, but in ourselves."

The audience last night was considerably larger than the one attending the initial performance given on Thursday evening.

Swimmers Place Second In Relay

Finish Behind Pennsylvania in International Event

Though swimming with two men new to senior company, the McGill mermen sent a relay team through 160 yards last night fast enough to earn a second place behind Pennsylvania Athletic Club, but ahead of the M.A.A.A. In the 410 yards free style the McGill representative, Munroe Bourne, was rather outclassed by Walter Spence of Pennsylvania, who is American 500 yard National Champion.

Bourne went first for McGill in the relay, just about holding his man for the first lap. The Penn. star man was put in against Pete Southam, and the American team built up a ten yard lead, which they just evenly held from Fred Shaw and Bill Sprenger.

In the quarter, which was a Dominion championship, Spence seemed to be feeling Bourne out for the first 200 yards, letting him take the lead for the first five lengths, and only passing him by a couple of feet in the next five. Then however, the British Yuliana swimmer began to move. Covering a third of the tank in lightning-like strokes from turns the water at each stroke he drew away to a lead of three-quarters of a length, winning in the world beating time of four minutes and fifty-nine seconds. This breaks the Canadian record formerly held by Walter Lawler Lakeshore Athletic Club, Chicago. Bourne finished in about 5.12 to take second place from Walker of Penn. Brophy of Montreal and Parsons of Ottawa.

The two races in which McGill took part were run in conjunction with the International water-polo game between M.A.A.A. and Pennsylvania. The game was won by the local team by the score of nine to three.

C.I.A.U. Meets Today

To Discuss Four-Year Rule Again

The four-year rule will again come up for discussion when the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union meets here today.

The University of Toronto has given notice that its representatives will introduce a motion that the four year regulation in major college sports be eliminated and that a freshman rule shall be added, preventing students becoming members of rugby or hockey teams until after a year of university course, this rule to have a three-year trial before it becomes a permanent part of the by-laws.

Queen's University supports Varsity in its move, with this amendment, that "the freshman rule be tried two years only and that the rule be made to apply to all teams playing in senior sport."

The purpose of the Queen's motion is to bring Western University under the ruling. "Active members" would limit the rule to Queen's, Varsity and McGill, as Western is an associate member of the Union.

Empire Shows No Enthusiasm

which must be taken into account. If we are going to do the best we can for preservation of the empire.

"We are liable to forget that a rope adjoining two things can be cut from either end," he said, "and I fancy people in this country are ready to assume people of Britain are so anxious to keep the commonwealth at all costs that they are ready to make any concessions to retain the Dominions."

The attitude of the British people toward the colonies is friendly indifference at best and impatient indifference at the worst, he declared, and

McGill Juniors Meet Victorias

Red Hockeyists Play This Afternoon at Forum

The second meeting of the Junior Q.A.H.A. this afternoon at the Forum will see a McGill squad stack up against Victorias, last year's Junior leaders, while Loyola is at home to M.A.A.A. The red and white junior squad put up a brilliant display against Camp Orelida last week to hold their own opponents scoreless and are accorded an even break with Victorias.

Coach Bobby Bell has managed to whip a formidable McGill aggregation from the following men: McHugh, Rubin, Bell, D. S. Johnson, Hunt, Calder, Haines, Ebbitt, Mahaffey, Johnson, G. Willmott, and R. W. Johnson. These men are asked to be on hand at the Forum at 1.30 to-day with their own equipment except red sweaters and stockings.

The McGill-Vic tussle is expected to be the highlight of the afternoon. A win for the redmen will bring them up within a point of Loyola, who won their game last week and are expected to beat M.A.A.A. A large turnout of the student body will most likely see the McGill team in action.

Manager Webster announces that practices are held on Wednesdays from 3 to 4 at the Forum, and that the squad is by no means complete as yet, so all new material will be greatly appreciated at the next workout, along with Black, Leggat, Bowman, and Racey who attended former workouts.

Arts Cagers In 50-7 Win Over Plumbers

Shuster Was High Scorer for Arts Yesterday

Good passing and accurate shooting gave the Arts Juniors a well-earned victory when they met the Science 4 quintette in the High School gym last night. The final score was 50-7 in favor of the Arts squad. Although a small crowd turned out to witness the clean tilt, the spectators present were treated to a clean and exciting game, the Science seniors providing plenty of opposition. Weak shooting accounted for their downfall.

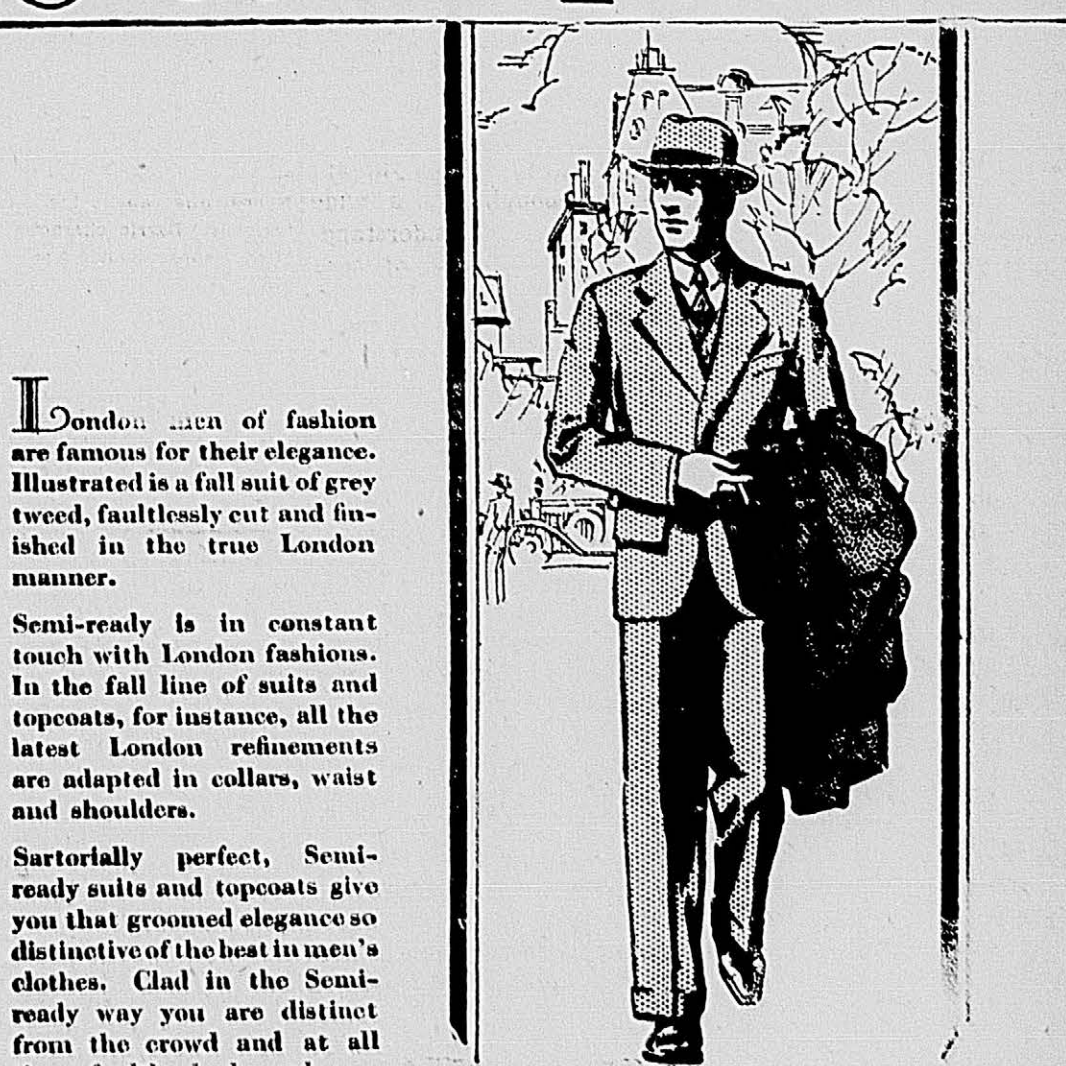

Despite the keen competition given by their opponents, the Arts basketballers found themselves soon after the game had started and relying on snappy passing were able to penetrate the Science territory to make their shots count. Shuster proved the sensation of the game, his accurate eye finding the basket on no less than ten occasions. Led by Bernstein, Hartney and O'Connell, the plumbers put up a spirited resistance but due to too many long-shots and wild passing they were unable to chalk up the much-needed points.

Katz and Seltzer at the guard positions for Arts were all that could be asked for. They broke up the rushes of the plumbers whenever they got within scoring distance. They played cool and steady basketball and found little difficulty in warding off the threats of their opponents.
